

The Civil Justice Clinic

The Clinical Program at the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University is one of the most comprehensive, well-established clinical programs in the country. Through the Clinical Program, ASU law students have been helping Arizona low income clients resolve legal problems and disputes since 1969

Our Dual Mission

- To prepare law students with the training, supervision, and field experience necessary to become effective lawyers and truly reflective professionals
- To undertake projects and cases that advance the public interest and provide quality representation to clients who need pro bono representation

Clients Served

The Civil Justice Clinic:

- Receives an average of 80-100 telephone calls per week from people seeking legal assistance
- low income clients each year who are seeking unemployment
- Local military and their families who are deployed (or returning from deployment) and in need of civil assistance.
